On receiving this award, Partho Bhattacharya, Invenio's Managing Director said "I am thrilled that Invenio received this award in such a short amount of time. This is a tribute to the entire team here at Invenio as it's through their passion and commitment to delivering superior value to our customers that it's been possible to realise such a remarkable achievement". He continues "Not only did we invest considerably in our service-based offerings in the past year, but we collaborated closely with our customers in creating many new SAP-based innovations which helps to substantially reduce their costs and improve business processes. It is the intelligent application of solutions like these that have helped us to develop our customer relationships during the past year – and it is these relationships that will help us to sustain the development and delivery of superior customer value for many years to come."
